Foundation models are the column-best in every target × resolution cell (bold = best); classical rows run darker