One shared clock: vision demand is far spikier than the request signal

